C. signal mains, one phase being run in each direction from the sub-station. At the end of each block section a step-down transformer, with two secondary coils, delivers current at about 12 volts for the track circuit and 50 and two dwarfs. The machine at Sixty-eighth street will control four switches, 13 signals and six dwarfs. We are indebted to Mr. William S. Twining, Chief Engineer of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., for the information. Records of Fast Runs. The full page table of fast and unusual runs of steam locomotives published herewith is of the nature of an index to records which have been published in the Railroad Gazette during the past 26 years. It is a condensation and revision of the tables published in the issues of June 11, 1897; January 11, 1901, and December 15, 1905. The table of 1897 was published in Modern Locomotives and the table as now revised appears on page 98 of the Locomotive Dictionary, which has just been published by the Railroad Gazette. In the table the time given is in each case that from the beginning to the end of the run, including stops. The improvement which has been made in locomotive service since 1895 is shown not so much in higher speeds per se as in the heavier trains now hauled without diminution of speed, and at...
